

The Daily Republican.

HAMMER & MOSSER,
P. M. MORRISON, Publishers.DECATUR, ILLINOIS:
Friday Evening, February 11.

EX-SPEAKER BLAINE delivered his long promised speech on the financial question yesterday, taking the diplomatic appropriation bill as the occasion to do so.

An interesting editorial article in the London Times shows the manner in which the superior energy and resources of America have, within the past ten years, wrought a revolution in the grain supply of Europe, and the embarrassment and alarm which prevail in Russia in consequence of the fact that her corn-producing regions have been distanced in the great competitive race with the United States. The Times shows that, whereas nine years ago 44 per cent of the grain exported to England came from Russia and only 11 per cent from America, now 44 per cent comes from America and but 21 per cent from Russia. To this state of things is partly attributed the great monetary crisis at Moscow, the continuous depreciation of the paper currency, and the excessive distress in Southern Russia.

Still another speech-saving device of the dealers in slush is reported by an Edinburgh correspondent: "There are so many things one would be glad to know about one's neighbor—is she or he handsome, or agreeable, or clever, or nice, or pleasant, and so on, all this is now provided for and packed away in the simple monosyllabic quite. You have no need to ask your friend a torrent of questions about the lady of his choice; it he says she is quite, that includes everything desirable, and if he adds that he thinks her quite quite, you know at once that she is the no place ultra of perfection."

EX GOV. WILLIAM ALLEN, of Ohio, has been interviewed upon the Presidential question by a reporter of the Cincinnati Enquirer. The old gentleman said: "As for myself, I have nothing to say. I am a private citizen as I was before the people of Ohio called me to the chief executive office of the State. I am not a candidate for any office. I am not seeking any office. But I will not disclaim myself by saying I would not take office if it were tendered to me." Mr. Allen may be "counted in" henceforth by the Democratic managers.

Mr. Booth's SOUTHERN ENGAGEMENT.—Edwin Booth is paid $400 per night. His contract is for fifty nights, and for this period he receives $30,000. When Mr. Ford went to him to make the contract he proposed to give him what he (Booth) thought he could make in New York. Mr. Booth told him that he could make $600 per night there. Mr. Ford offered him that much, and a bargain was made. Every night's performance costs the manager of this company $1,000. One of the terms of the contract is that Mr. Booth is never to do any night travel, and never to have a stopping place before 11 o'clock in the day, unless to choose to do so. Notwithstanding his heavy expenses, Mr. Ford calculates on making $4,000 or $1,000 clear money during the Southern tour. Mr. Booth never plays in Washington City, and never on Friday nights—Christopher (N. Y.) Observer.

A CLOUD appears to be gathering over the political horizon of Southern Europe. If the British vice-president of the London Times is to be credited, and the rumor is strict that the Vienna Cabinet is about to resign an entirely new change in the programme may be confidently looked for. Under the administration of Count Andrasdy there appeared to be a reasonable hope of a peaceful settlement, or at least for the present, of Turkish difficulties. With a Ministry presided over by Count Taaffe, an Ultramontane and Conservative, a very different course of action may be looked for. Turkey has accepted, in part, the Austrian note, but for it will not act up to the far promises contained in its reply remains to be seen. Under Count Taaffe and the Austrian Conservatives, there can be little unity of feeling between Germany and that nation. It is impossible to predict at what particular time, or upon what particular grounds, these two powers may stand at bay, but it is very sure that the predictions of a general war in Europe, made by those who profess to know, are not without foundation. A mine is certainly preparing, which may burst with uncontrollable fury at no distant day.

GOVERNORIAL HISTORY.

Brief Paragraphs About Illinois Governors.

From Shadrach Bond to John L. Burbridge.

Springfield Correspondent Chicago Journal.

Sometime in the future—say about twenty-five years—there will assemble at the State capital a Legislature that will have respect enough for the early pioneers of the State to order a collection and publication of the political history of Illinois from the time it was set off as an independent territory—February 3, 1809—down to the present time. There is no such history now; there is scarcely anything in the State archives which will go to make that history. When it is prepared, it will have to be collected from a thousand public and private sources. To-day my attention was called to a semi-official document emanating from the office of the Secretary of State, which purports to be a list of the Governors of Illinois, with the date of their commission; and yet, at a glance, I saw that the list omitted the names of General Ewing and John Wood, both of whom had the honor of writing "Governor" after their names.

WHO WERE OUR GOVERNORS. For the benefit of those who take an interest in the early history of the State, at much labor I have prepared an authentic chronology of the Governors of Illinois:

Date of From Governor, Commission what county. Gundlach Bond, Dec. 6, 1818—Randolph. Miller, Colfax, Dec. 1, 1819—Clinton. Miller, Bond, Dec. 1, 1820—St. Clair. John Reynolds, Dec. 6, 1820—St. Clair. W. L. Ewing, Nov. 15, 1824—Fayette. John H. Morgan, Dec. 1, 1825—Morgan. Thomas G. Carl, Dec. 9, 1828—Greene. Thomas Ford, Dec. 8, 1832—Pearl. John H. Morgan, Dec. 1, 1833—Morgan. A. M. Matheson, Jan. 15, 1837—St. Clair. John H. Morgan, Jan. 15, 1837—Morgan. R. J. Oglesby, Jan. 15, 1847—Macon. John M. Palmer, Jan. 15, 1849—Benton. J. J. Odell, Jan. 15, 1851—Cook.

What an interesting history of the State's progress would be a sketch of the official actions of this long list of noble men!

It is contemporaneous history to true. Bond's Christian name was no misnomer, for like Shaftesbury of old, he could walk through a fiery furnace without damage. He was born in Maryland, stood six feet high, was over four of his "tods," and loved by the ladies. While he lacked education, he will take the Indiana Democracy to the National Convention without any argument ensued.

Judge Krum said Everest's evidence is incompetent because it is a presumption, and is intended to show that the envelopes, or one of the envelopes, was addressed to defendant. At this stage of the case it is intended to establish a conspiracy between parties at St. Louis and defendant. It is the connecting link in the theory of the prosecution. Thus far the case is barren in evidence to show that defendant had any connection with the conspirators in St. Louis. The naked question is presented that defendant did receive a letter containing money from the conspirators.

Mr. Johnson came here last night, to argue the case of Baker vs. Frick, argued in the court of appeals, to-day.

By invitation of Governor Carroll, he became his guest at the executive mansion.

To-day the Governor invited Chief Justice Barton, and several other gentlemen to meet Mr. Johnson at the mansion at dinner. They dined about 8 p.m. At dinner Mr. Johnson was in excellent spirits, and entertained the company by his conversation, and relating anecdotes. At dinner he took one glass of Madeira, and refused to take any more. After dinner he suddenly asked the governor to take him into the parlor. He took the governor's arm, and walking in there, he sat down upon a sofa. At the request of Mr. Johnson, the governor rejoined the guests. Shortly afterward a servant appeared at the door, and beckoning the governor out, told him that Mr. Johnson was laying in the yard on the stones. The governor went immediately to the place, and found Mr. Johnson lying on the cobble stone carriage-way that passes under the porch of the mansion. He had evidently gone down the front steps and around to the side of the house, and fallen where he was found. This was about 8:15, and the impression is that he had laid there at least a half-hour. He was then dead, and bleeding profusely from wounds on the right side of his head and face. His body was at once removed into the basement room, and physicians summoned. Dr. W. G. Tuck was the first to arrive, and he pronounced life extinct.

Joseph Duncan was born in Paris, Ky., Feb. 23, 1791, and came to Illinois when quite a young man. He espoused the cause of Jackson, but in 1828, when a member of Congress, he united with the Adams party. Having had limited educational advantages in his youth, he became in mature life a firm advocate of free schools, introducing into the Illinois Legislature the first bill of which there is any record on that subject. Notwithstanding his political ratiocinations he was always popular with the masses of the people. When and where he died I do not recall at this writing.

Thomas Carlin was born of Irish parents, near Frankfort, Ky., July 18, 1789, and came to Illinois in 1812. He also had a limited education. "Governor Carlin," says Ford, "was a man of remarkable physical energy and elasticity. In stature he was above the medium height, light complexion, a square looking face, high forehead, long nose and thin lips. He was a Democrat of the strictest sort." It was during his administration that the Legislature inaugurated the internal improvement system. He died Feb. 1, 1852, at his home in Carrollton.

EVEREST ON THE STAND.

He Knew Nothing of Babcock's Connection with the Ring.

DEATH OF EVERETT JOHNSON.

ST. LOUIS, February 19.—In the trial of Babcock to-day, the first witness was William J. Bassett, a ganger in the ring. He testified as to the operations which came under his observation in 1874, and the winter and spring of 1875. He acknowledged that, acting under instructions from his employer, he committed at frauds. He explained the various kinds of frauds.

Abijah M. Everest, collector for the ring in 1874 and 1875, testified that the weekly collections during that time ran as follows: Ulric's distillery, $1,000 to $2,700; Birgman's, $500 to $1,500; Joncas, $500 to $1,100, and others in the same proportion.
